Alaska Media Group - Attn: danny@alaskaaim.com Moving 105.7

Hey Snow Lovers, the Alaska Avalanche Information Center here with your weekly Snow Report thanks to support from Moving 105.7!

The National Weather Service forecasts clear skies and cool temperatures to continue into next week with a possibility of some snow this weekend.

Avalanche danger remains CONSIDERABLE at Hatcher Pass due to persistent slab avalanche conditions. Forecasters advise extreme caution and conservative decision-making. Turnagain Pass and Summit Lake avalanche danger is rated generally LOW, but weak layers persist under newer snow so caution and careful planning is strongly advised.

Need a good workout? Groomed ski trails are open at Kesugi Ken and Byers Lake loop trails out the Parks Highway and a few Nancy Lakes trails are open to snowmachines as well. Closer to Anchorage, skiers and fat bike enthusiasts can ride the Chugach State Park trails.

While we are all waiting for more snow why not tune up your avalanche rescue skills. Join the Alaska Avalanche Information Center Hatcher Pass, along with the Chugach National Forest Service and the Alaska Avalanche School, on Saturday, Jan. 14th from 11 am to 1 pm at Hatcher Pass for a free workshop!

More details about these and other upcoming programs in your area can be found at AlaskaSnow.org.

Remember if you are heading into the mountains go prepared. Take your beacon, shovel and probe and know how to use them so you can Live to Ride Another Day!

That's it for this week. Get outdoors, enjoy Alaska and THINK SNOW!
